Tour 1 All-Day – "An all day Doll Day – Old Salem and Beyond"
UPDATED ITINERARY – August 2010
Tuesday September 28, 2010 8:30 am – 5:30 pm

The day's adventure will kick off with a Welcome Reception at the offices of the Winston-Salem Visitors Bureau which are in a beautiful historic building, once the Brookstown Mill. After sampling Moravian cookies, thus whetting our appetite for a visit to Winkler Bakery in Old Salem, we will head directly to Old Salem.

We will join Leslie Manning, a Museum Educator at Old Salem, and a doll maker, for an informative session on how she crafts historically costumed cloth dolls. Each doll she makes has a needle sculpted face and features. The clothing is researched and hand sewn using historic methods and period correct materials. You will view some of the dolls in Old Salem's collection as well as the dolls that Leslie has created. The one hour session will ensure ample time for individual exploration and lunch on your own.

Shop at the Old Salem Souvenir Shop in the Visitor Center area and then enjoy a sandwich for lunch at the Mayberry's Restaurant (located in the Visitor Center) or break away and wander into the Village where there is shopping to be had at T. Bagge Merchants (since 1775) for Moravian stars, beeswax candles, etc., and lunch at the Salem Tavern Restaurant (1816) which offers an authentic dining experience with costumed servers and traditional Moravian meals. Or, instead, wander further up Main Street to visit the Winkler Bakery (1880) where bread, cookies, etc. are still baked daily in a wood fired oven and sold on the street level. Upstairs, enjoy lunch at another Mayberry's Restaurant location.

After lunch the bus will depart for the Doll & Miniature Museum in High Point, N.C. home of 2700 dolls from around the world. After viewing more than 130 Shirley Temple dolls, wax dolls, tin head dolls, bisque dolls, wooden dolls, cloth dolls, china head dolls and so much more, we will be on our way to our final stop – The Doll Market in Greensboro (The Largest Doll Shop in the USA!)

The Doll Market is throwing a BJD Party for our visit; so besides all that shopping (30,000 sq. ft.) there will be refreshments (to keep our strength and energy up), raffles every 30 minutes and fun, fun, fun!! Dolls are welcome guests at this GALA EVENT !!

Could this tour be any more exciting?! There will be plenty to talk about on the return trip to our Convention Hotel.
